Project management professional, financial steward and lifelong servant of New Prospect Baptist Church

SUMMARY

Engineer, financial analyst and certified project manager who has spent a career controlling large budgets and a lifetime serving the church that raised him. Elected a trustee of New Prospect at 17 and later its Financial Secretary, with not one dollar lost. Brings corporate-grade financial discipline, construction and property expertise, and a servant's heart to the work of restoring trust in how God's money is handled.

CHURCH SERVICE · NEW PROSPECT BAPTIST CHURCH

Financial Secretary

- Oversaw the counting, recording and reporting of tithes and offerings; no funds lost during his tenure.
- Kept financial records separate from disbursement, the safeguard later removed without a church vote.

Trustee, elected by the congregation at 17

- Received with the right hand of fellowship; one of the youngest trustees in the church's history.
- As trustee secretary, certified the official count of 218 votes when the church called Rev. Damon Lynch III as pastor.

Author, New Prospect Restoration Plan

- Designed the Stewardship Council governance model: member-elected oversight, separation of duties, monthly reconciliation, quarterly reports and a yearly outside audit.
